

SS&C TECHNOLOGIES HOLDINGS, INC. (the “COMPANY”)
HEDGING AND PLEDGING POLICY

Adopted October 22, 2025

A. Hedging and Derivatives.

Covered Persons (as defined herein) are prohibited from engaging in any transactions (“Prohibited Transactions”) that are designed to hedge or speculate on any change in the market value of the Company’s equity securities. As discussed below, Covered Persons are also prohibited from shorting the Company’s stock.

Trading in options or other derivatives is generally highly speculative and very risky. People who buy options are betting that the stock price will move rapidly. For that reason, when a person trades in options in his or her employer’s stock, it will arouse suspicion in the eyes of the Securities and Exchange Commission (the “SEC”) that the person was trading on the basis of inside information, particularly where the trading occurs before a company announcement or major event. It is difficult for an employee or director to prove that he or she did not know about the announcement or event.

If the SEC or the stock exchanges were to notice active options trading by one or more employees or directors of the Company prior to an announcement, they would investigate. Such an investigation could be embarrassing to the Company (as well as expensive), and could result in severe penalties and expense for the persons involved. For all of these reasons, the Company prohibits its employees and directors from trading in options or other securities involving the Company’s stock. This policy does not prohibit “Permitted Transactions,” as defined below.

B. Pledging of Securities, Margin Accounts.

Pledged securities may be sold by the pledgee without the pledgor’s consent under certain conditions. For example, securities held in a margin account may be sold by a broker without the customer’s consent if the customer fails to meet a margin call. Because such a sale may occur at a time when an employee or a director has material inside information or is otherwise not permitted to trade in Company securities, no Covered Person may purchase Company securities on margin, hold Company securities in a margin account, or pledge Company securities as collateral for a loan. However, an exception may be granted where a person wishes to pledge Company securities as collateral for a loan and clearly demonstrates the financial capacity to repay the loan without resort to the pledged securities. Any Covered Person who wishes to pledge Company securities as collateral for a loan must submit a request for approval to the Chief Financial Officer or the General Counsel.

C. Administration.

The Audit Committee of the Board of Directors of the Company (the “Committee”) shall have full authority and discretion in overseeing the administration and interpretation of this Policy.

D. Definitions.
